

ROOSEVELT PEOPLE OF OHIO SHOW ENTHUSIASM

Will Nominate Arthur L. Garfield for Governor at First Convention.

DEMOCRATS LOSE HOPE

They Are Not Now So Sure of Results—Taft People Hoping for a Change.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 24.—Taft leaders in Ohio are hoping for something favorable to turn up. They have no expectation of carrying the State unless conditions are changed. Their run of luck has been all to the bad and they figure that it hardly can continue thus until November.

Just at this moment the Roosevelt people are chock full of enthusiasm and preparing for their first State convention September 4 and 5, when in all probability Arthur L. Garfield of Ellettsville will be nominated for Governor. Of the three candidates for Governor who then will be in the field, Mr. Garfield will be the strongest personally. He is a man of high character and, save for the antagonism aroused as a result of his fighting for Roosevelt, he has not lost the respect of any political element of the State. On the other hand, both James M. Cox, the Democratic nominee, and Gen. R. B. Brown, the head of the Republican ticket, have not been greatly respected by the press. The prospect is, in fact, that they will divide the wet vote, so that Mr. Garfield will benefit to this extent.

A month ago the Democratic campaign managers were cocky as a result of the split in the ranks of the opposition and the retirement of Judge Dillon as candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket because the Roosevelt people annoyed him. Lately, however, there have been indications that the Democrats were not so sure of their election of a third ticket guaranteed the election of Mr. Cox in advance. The temperance issue has been a bothersome one in Ohio for years and is likely to be so this fall, even though the election September 3 on constitutional amendments should result in the adoption of license.

As a result of the Republican candidates for county offices since the third party has made definite plans for a State and county campaign. Soon after the first Chicago convention it was said that the county candidates would make such a fuss that Roosevelt leaders would be discouraged in forming a third party within the State. The prospect has failed of fulfillment. The candidates are up against it. Most of them have to take sides one way or the other and stand for the division thus caused.

"He is a man, a mouse or a long tailed rat, a Republican, a bolter (Moose) or a Democrat." This has been put out by Harry M. Daugherty, chairman of the Republican State executive committee, as a campaign motto. It is a succinct way of stating his attitude, or rather the attitude of the Republican State organization, that candidates and voters too must declare themselves either as supporters of the party's national ticket or be considered as bolters and cowards, or Democrats. Candidates who do not make their allegiance known may expect no financial help from the State committee. Mr. Daugherty has said: "We are just choosing up now, you know, and it is sure no man can play ball on two teams at the same time," he observed this week.

The question of the right of a State candidate to have his name appear on two tickets has not been put to the courts and may not be, since there may be no candidates wishing to test the issue. There have been two outspoken Roosevelt men on the Republican ticket, William Kirtley, Jr., for Board of Public Works and Freeman T. Eagleston, for Attorney-General. Both have been reported as saying they would step off the Republican ticket if nominated by the Moose. However, in many instances the dual candidacy question arises in the counties, since the Progressives have endorsed a large number of Republicans and Democrats too. In Franklin county, for instance, the Progressives have endorsed a Democratic candidate, L. Brumbaugh, Democratic candidate for Congress. They took this action in the face of a letter from Mr. Brumbaugh saying he intended voting for Wilson.

Republicans were hard put to it to get candidates for Governor when Judge Dillon retired. The Taft leaders forced the nomination of Gen. R. B. Brown, whereupon the Roosevelt members of the State committee quit the party once more. Brown is not a strong candidate in any sense of the word. It was thought that sentiment for an old soldier has been head of the G. A. R. in the State and all the nation would rally a large number of votes for him, but this expectation hardly will be realized. If elected Gen. Brown will be the last of the civil war to hold the office, which many of his comrades have given up for a second term. The Senator says: "I have become convinced of the unfitness of Blaise to be Governor. The State has been disgraced in the eyes of the world and its good name made a by-word and a hissing. Nobody can redeem it except its own people. I implore the people to take care of the State's good name next Tuesday."

THIRD PARTY IN ALBANY.
Name Labor Man for Congress and County Ticket.
ALBANY, Aug. 24.—The Progressive party in the Albany-Rensselaer Congress district nominated Joseph E. Wilson for Congress. He is a Democratic Supervisor and president of the State Amalgamated Association of Street Railroad Employees. County Progressives named Henry J. Crawford of Albany for Senator, Arthur Smith of Cohoes for Coroner and William S. Manning for Assembly in the Third district. A committee was appointed to nominate the candidate for State Representative for the Albany county Progressive ticket.

A LABOR PARTY MARKS TIME.
Hatch Organization Will Wait for More Nominations.
The first regular meeting for the present political campaign of the Federated Labor party formed three years ago of members of unions in this city to support candidates who are believed to be in favor of legislation for the benefit of workers was held yesterday, James H. Hatch, president of the body, in the chair. Delegates of the party were present from the different assembly districts.

The meeting was a very long one. The platform of the Republican, Democratic and Roosevelt parties were read and discussed but no decision was reached. It was decided to wait for the gubernatorial nominations for this State before taking any action as the delegates were to be the platform of the candidates for Governor first, the Federated Labor party being a local organization.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 24.—The Thirtieth District Republican State committee representing Saratoga and Washington counties to-day designated Assemblyman George H. Brackett as the candidate for State Senator to succeed Senator Edgar J. Brackett.

McCOMBS ILL, WILSON FEARS HE WON'T RETURN

The Governor Says Democratic Chairman May Not Resume His Duties.

McADOO CAMPAIGN HEAD

Nominee Comes to New York to Attend Campaign Conference Tomorrow.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 24.—Gov. Wilson heard disturbing news to-day from those who are in attendance upon William F. McCombs, the Democratic national chairman, who is ill at the home of his sister in Flushing, N. Y. It has generally been understood that Mr. McCombs was suffering from a nervous breakdown attributed to hard work during the pre-convention campaign and at Baltimore. The state of his health was a serious consideration when he was being urged to accept the chairmanship of the National Democratic Committee.

It is learned that he is suffering from intestinal poisoning, resulting from a particularly virulent form of indigestion, and that his recovery in time to resume his political labors is problematical. Gov. Wilson has been anxious as to the health of Mr. McCombs. He was asked what he had learned by letter and telephone.

"I hope that Mr. McCombs will be back in time to take charge of the campaign," he said. "There is, however, an element of conjecture about it. One of his physicians has cast a doubt about his coming back in the campaign. I suppose from what I have learned of Mr. McCombs's illness that he will have a slow recovery."

Earlier in the day Gov. Wilson said he had been informed that it would be three weeks and possibly a month before Mr. McCombs could be expected to return to the headquarters in New York. Mr. McCombs is unable to continue the work it will be undertaken by William G. McAdoo, vice-chairman of the National Committee, who has been acting chairman since Mr. McCombs was forced to seek complete rest. Should this happen it is unlikely that there will be any changes in the plan of campaign. It has already been mapped out. Gov. Wilson has his own ideas as to how his political fortunes should be managed and the members of the National Committee are in entire accord with them.

The Governor left on the 5:08 o'clock train this afternoon for New York. He will have breakfast Monday morning with Mr. McAdoo and others who are connected with the headquarters in New York. His object is to talk over with them the details of the campaign which, now that Congress has adjourned, is expected to take on a somewhat different aspect. There will, however, be no change in the general scheme, which is that the candidate shall not make any extended speaking tour. While some of his friends have urged him to "make a swing or two," Gov. Wilson and those on whose judgment he relies believe that more will be accomplished by adhering to the former plan.

"I am not going to make any extended speaking tour," said the Governor. "We will simply decide on Monday the amount of speaking I am to do and the places I am to visit. There will not be any large number of speeches away from New Jersey. Still nobody knows what the developments of the campaign will be."

"It is the general judgment that this is the most effective way to conduct this campaign. From my general correspondence I find that a great majority of the people believe that I ought not to make a great number of speeches. The country is tired of speaking tours. The arguments on the other side of this question come from men active in politics. They are horrified that the usual programme will not be followed in this campaign."

"My private judgment is that extended speaking tours are the most effective method of conducting a campaign. I make a considerable number of speeches, but as for going about and canvassing the country I have no such intention. You must remember that I am Governor of New Jersey and that I must keep in touch with the business of the State."

Senator Dixon Wants Investigation Kept Up.
CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—"I hope the Senate committee will keep up its investigation of the Republican campaign funds until it gets all the facts," said Senator Dixon, Roosevelt's campaign manager. "I believe it is furnishing the greatest argument that could be made in favor of the Roosevelt movement."

He said that the Standard Oil money was given to Treasurer Bliss, but I am sure that neither Cortelyou nor Roosevelt knew it or accepted it."

SUFFRAGISTS AT CONVENTION.

Want Rockland County Candidate for Assembly Pledged.

NYACK, N. Y., Aug. 24.—The Rockland county Republicans at New City this afternoon nominated the following ticket: Assembly, Rutledge I. Odell of Stony Point; sheriff, Harry T. Essex of Nyack; coroners, S. W. Dutcher of Haverstraw and Frank Hunter of Suffern. The Woman's Political Union asked the convention to instruct Mr. Odell, if he is elected to the Assembly, to vote for a woman suffrage bill next winter. As Odell is known to be in favor of suffrage it was left optional with him.

The prohibitionists of Rockland county met at Spring Valley and nominated E. J. Keane and John J. Keane for Assembly. The Socialist party of the county nominated Oscar Wolfe for Assembly.

THIRD PARTY NAMES DEMOCRATIC JUSTICE

Woodruff Controls Convention for Jenks, With Assemblyman Green His Associate.

The judiciary convention of the Progressive party for the nomination of two judges to the Second District, which commenced at Queens, Nassau, Suffolk and Richmond counties, was held yesterday afternoon in Part II of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. It was made up of three delegates from each Assembly district, and among them was one woman, Miss Sarah Stephenson of the First district in Kings.

The convention was organized by the election of Charles Armstrong as chairman and Alfred G. Thompson secretary. Timothy L. Woodruff had steadfastly advocated the nomination of Justice Almet F. Jenks, whose term expires at the close of the year and who is to be renominated by the Democrats to-morrow, as one of the Progressive party's candidates, but he met with considerable opposition in carrying out his programme and was unable to prevent a clash in the convention.

George J. Houtain, who retired as a member of the Republican county committee to join the new party, voiced the opposition to the proposed fusion with the Democrats on Justice Jenks by offering a resolution that no candidate be selected who has not declared himself in favor of the principles of the Progressive party. Mr. Woodruff vigorously opposed the resolution, contending that it would bring the judiciary into politics and prevent the endorsement of Justice Jenks, whom he warmly eulogized. After a long discussion, in which a dozen or more of the delegates participated, the resolution was voted down and nominations started were made. Woodruff, who named Justice Jenks.

The other candidates put in nomination were former Assemblyman George A. Green, Edward E. Curran, George E. Cogswell of Queens, County Judge Norman S. Dike, James H. Gray, James L. Donsey of Nassau, J. Philip Ray and County Judge Lewis L. Fawcett, who was nominated by Miss Stephenson.

On the first ballot Justice Jenks received 63 of the 88 votes cast, the remaining 25 being distributed among the other candidates, and was declared one of the nominees.

On the second ballot ex-Assemblyman Green led with Mr. Curran a close second. The third ballot was started by Mr. Curran withdrew in favor of Green, whose nomination was as well as that of Jenks, was then made unanimous.

On the third ballot, in active practice at the Kings county bar for ten years, and during that time had been prominent in Republican politics in the Twelfth Assembly district until his bolt to Roosevelt directly after the Chicago convention. He was mainly instrumental in switching the Logan Club from its old Republican bearings to the side of the Progressives.

The Democratic and Republican judiciary conventions will be held simultaneously to-morrow afternoon in the County Court House. Justice Almet F. Jenks, who is presiding in the Appellate Division, will be renominated to head the Democratic ticket, but there is such a feeling of antagonism between the two parties for the other places that John H. McCreedy has called a special meeting of the district leaders for to-morrow forenoon so as to make a final decision and avoid a contest in the convention.

David S. Manning, president of the Kings county Bar Association, had been practically elected as Justice Jenks's associate on the ticket. Mr. Manning, who is a member of the finance committee of the National Democratic Committee, was elected to the position. The other candidates insisted that there should be a conference of the district leaders before final action was taken. The conference was held at the Hotel of State of Lazzarus, Patrick E. Cahill, Dr. Philip A. Brennan and Magistrate John P. Hyland.

Lewis L. Fawcett of the County Court as one of the candidates, but who the others will be has not been determined. The managers of the Progressive party are in favor of endorsing Justice Jenks in case the Democrats agree to accept Judge Fawcett, but this proposed fusion fell through.

SCHWAB'S NEPHEW TO WED.

Gets Consent of Girl's Father After Several Weeks Delay.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Aug. 24.—Frederick G. Schwab, Jr., of Haverhill, a nephew of the steel magnate, and Miss Katherine Grosz, daughter of Ernest Grosz of Lansdale, were granted a marriage license to-day. The original application for a license was made on August 9, nearly three weeks ago. He had first returned from Europe, where he had been for a few months and she could not obtain her father's consent. The wedding plans were thus delayed. Yesterday the way for the license was made by the father of the bride, who is now appearing before a notary in Lansdale and finally affixing his signature to the necessary form.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Aug. 24.—The Sullivan county Democratic nominated John K. Evans for Assembly and Elmer Baker for Special County Judge yesterday. Townsend came out on the party ticket as an aspirant for the United States Senatorship. The primaries will be held September 24.

APPEARANCE OF SMITH STIRS NEW JERSEY

It Is Believed to Have Inspired Wilson's Warning Against Bosses.

EX-SENATOR A CANDIDATE?

Events of the Last Week Fore-shadow His Entrance Into Senatorial Race.

Things that have happened in New Jersey political circles within the last few days foreshadow the appearance of ex-United States Senator James Smith of Newark in the coming primaries as a candidate for reelection to the Senate. The Attorney-General's office has just ruled that all the aspirants for the Senatorship who contemplate asking a preferential vote at the primaries of next month must have their petitions on file with the Secretary of State on or before September 3.

The imminence of Mr. Smith's participation in the primary scrap is said in political circles to have inspired Gov. Wilson's warning in a recent speech in Trenton that the old time bosses are planning to get back into power in the State and that they will do it unless the people look out.

The developments of the last seventy-two hours are expected to have an important bearing upon the vote of the State in the Presidential contest. The ex-Senator has taken into his camp an element that has been conspicuous in the Wilson ranks, and the end may be the forcing on the Governor's forces of a compromise that may keep their hands out of the Senatorial fray, if they do not get in actively to help Smith along. At one time it was understood that Gov. Wilson's friends might help Mr. Smith get votes in the Senatorial preferential primary in exchange for the help of Mr. Smith in giving the Wilson "clinch" in the State Presidential ticket. But a semi-official, though no less authorized, announcement from Trenton is that the Governor is prepared to fight Mr. Smith to the last ditch.

The events that foreshadow the ex-Senator's appearance on the scene have been happening in Hudson and Essex counties, where his influence is the strongest, and from which he would hope to get the bulk of the vote. In the campaign before the gubernatorial primaries of 1910 and even since his election to the chief chair of State Gov. Wilson has been importuned by Mayor Wiggins of Jersey City for recognition as the leader of the Hudson county Democracy. The Governor is reported to have been inclined to resent Wiggins' demands upon him, but he has met most of them, notably in giving the Assistant Secretary of State to Wiggins' chief lieutenant, Job H. Lipincott.

Wiggins' reach for power was due to his desire to be the Democratic candidate for the Governorship at the election of next November. He assumed that he could force the Governor to step out of office in time to permit the election of a new Governor this year. In anticipation of it he had taken ex-Judge John W. Westcott of Camden into political partnership with him as a candidate for United States Senator. And his friends were combining the Wiggins-Westcott combination industriously up to the hour when the Governor made it known that he would hang on to the Governorship for yet a while longer. That decision spoiled all of Wiggins' plans for a campaign this year, and as things will not be so complicated for him next year he changed his programme. The first thing he did was to say that while Westcott would make an admirable Senator there were others to be considered.

It so happens that Wiggins' leadership in the party has been challenged by Sheriff Pete Wedin and by Congressman Eugene C. Skinner. Each regards himself as much a factor in State politics as Wiggins thinks he is. Kinkead, as much for the purpose of leading somewhere apart from Wilson as for any other, picked up Congressman William Hughes of Passaic as his Senatorial favorite. Wedin took up the Westcott boom the moment he heard that Wiggins had dropped it. You have been "hooking" it at the Wiggins adherents in the most cruel way ever since.

He armed himself with a bunch of Westcott petitions and sent men out among the Wiggins men to get signers. "You have said you were for Westcott for Senator," the Sheriff's collectors will say to them. "Here's your chance to help him along by signing the petition." They did not sign, and because of their refusal the changed attitude of the Mayor toward his Camden Senatorial associate became widely known.

As Kinkead, his rival, had taken the initiative for Hughes, and Senator Gebhardt of Hunterdon, who has also announced his candidacy, is a negligible quantity in the Senatorial campaign, Wiggins was left without a Senatorial boom to attach himself to. Just then the Mayor's closest political adviser, who had been at danger's point with ex-Senator Smith, patched up his differences with Mr. Smith, and through him the Mayor's party was brought into contact with Mr. Smith's Senatorial boom.

One hour it said in the Wiggins fold that when Dr. Wilson reaches the Presidency the anti-boss crusade in New Jersey will lose its inspiration, and that Mr. Smith, who has always been the most considerable factor in State politics, will come to his own again. His resurrection will enable Mr. Smith to do a good deal toward making a Governor of Wiggins in the fall of next year, and Mr. Smith was once again overtures from him. The situation culminated in a conference of "leaders" in Newark last Thursday night. The Mayor was represented by the ex-enemy of Mr. Smith who had become Mr. Smith's friend again; and Kinkead was there too with the Hughes boom in his vest pocket.

Kinkead is ambitious for a new term in Congress. There have been loud intimations that he might have difficulty in securing a renomination in the new district into which the Congressional reapportionment bill legislated him. Part of that new district lies in Mr. Smith's own county of Essex—where Mr. Smith's supremacy is undisputed—and partly in Hudson, where Wiggins' influence is considerable. Reports have it that the Governor has said he will go into every county in the State against Smith, even if he loses the State himself. Of course he will find it useless to fight Smith without a candidate. There was a time when it seemed as if he might give countenance to Hughes's candidacy. But he has since been known to have criticized Mr. Hughes for his failure to take the seat in the Passaic County Court to which he appointed him some months ago.

to be the popular fad in New Jersey just now, as also to work even harder for Mr. Smith in the Senatorial preferential primary.

Such a combination would go far toward giving Mr. Smith the lead in the
